Ballerina Comedian at Wednesday Convocation

Lillian Moore, internationally famed American dancer, will appear at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday, November 19 in Weld Auditorium.

Miss Moore is one of the few ballerinas to combine virtuoso technique with outstanding abilities as a satirists and comedian.

As she gallops merrily across the stage in one of her light-hearted satirical dances, one would never guess that she is also a writer.

She has contributed more than 100 articles to such weighty publications as the Encyclopaedia Britannica, Theatre Arts Monthly, and the Encyclopedia dello Spettacolo in Rome.

Miss Moore is the author of a book, Artists of the Dance, and a recognized authority on dance history, whose work appears in the recently published Chronicles of American Dance.

This serious vein seldom shows up in Miss Moore's dance performances, however.

A firm believer in the power of laughter, she specializes in expert and affectionate studies of such diversified subjects as a nervous amateur auditioning for a television show, a temperamental prima ballerina, a housewife discovering a packet of old love letters in the attic, and a debutante of the '20's practising the intricacies of the tango.

Born in Virginia and educated in Baltimore, Miss Moore received most of her dance training right in New York City, under such famous masters as George Balanchine, Alexandra Fedorova and Leon Fokine.

She joined the Metropolitan Opera Ballet at the age of 16, and in the following year made her debut as a soloist in "La Juive."

Owl Smoker Set

The Owl Fraternity will stage the Owl Smoker Tuesday evening, November 18 in the small gym. All college men are invited to attend the Smoker.

Andy Dodds is the chairman for the event. Co-workers are Bob Pawlowski and Morrie Miller.

The entertainment will feature a trampoline act by Doreen Engle, a wrestling match between Pat Ferris and the "masked killer," an interpretive dance by Donna Rae Pender, and movies of the MS-Mankato football game.

A light lunch and card playing will top off the evening.

Later, after appearing with Balchine's American Ballet in concert, opera, and motion pictures, Miss Moore returned to the Metropolitan Opera as its prima ballerina.

There she was featured in such operas as "Faust," "Lakme," "La Traviata," "Samson and Delilah," and "Tannhauser."

An engagement as ballerina of the National Opera in Puerto Rico was followed by a tour of the Pacific Islands just after the war. Dancing in a musical based on the melodies of Jerome Kern, Miss Moore had a longed for opportunity to test her powers as a dance comedian with the result that her every appearance was greeted with cheers and the famous "wolf whistle" from GIs who had little idea that they were applauding a "long hair" opera star.

After a tour of Germany, Austria, Belgium and France for occupation forces, Miss Moore was invited to appear in the International Music Festival in Vienna.

Her outstanding success there, in the special brand of tragic-comedy which she has made so distinctively her own, heralded a solo tour of

"Bring One" will be the theme of the Sunday evening meeting of the Lutheran Students association which will be held in the Student Center at eight o'clock. Each member is asked to bring a guest.

"Should a Christian Join a Picket Line?" will be the topic, which will be discussed by Mr. Rudolph Otteson of the history department of NDAC, and it will be followed by student discussion of the topic.

Ethel Roth is in charge of special music for the program, Dorothy Quackenbush heads the food committee and Norma Tveit is in charge of recreation.

MISS LILLIAN MOORE

Italy, Sicily, Austria and Hungary, where she was hailed as the "Charlie Chaplin of the dance."

Returning to the United States, Miss Moore made her first appearance at the famed Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival, where she appeared again this summer.

In addition she has given solo performances at Columbia University and Cooper Union, New York City, and has directed the choreography for a series of operas produced on television by NBC.

Between tours, Miss Moore varies her program by teaching ballet and dance history at New York's fabulous High School of Performing Arts, where talented youngsters are trained for the stage (at city expense) under the direction of successful dancers, actors and musicians.

Miss Moore is one of the few of the younger dancers listed in the current Who's Who in America.

Seeing her on the stage, it is hard to believe that this is the same Lillian Moore who leads a tribute life as writer, teacher and dancer.

Other facets of her varied personality are completely submerged in the dance of the moment, as she gives her hilarious portraits of a terrified little ballerina backstage before a performance, or a weary spear-carrier rehearsing for a 19th Century "leg show."

The University of Minnesota Concert and Lecture Service arranged Miss Moore's tour of this area.

Students may see Miss Moore by presenting their activity tickets at the door.

Quam Wins Talent Show

Bonnie Quam, of Madison, Minnesota, was the winner of the Phillips 66 Talent Parade last Wednesday evening, November 5, when it appeared at Kindred, North Dakota.

Miss Quam, a sophomore at MSTC, and a member of the Beta Chi sorority, was chosen the winner over a girls trio, a men's quartette, and two male vocalists.

She will now appear for a week on radio station WDAY, and is eligible for a chance to compete in the quarter finals which will be held in Fargo sometime in December.

Harmon Directs Chior, F-M Orchestra Monday

Dr. H. Duane Harmon will direct the MSTC choir and the Fargo-Moorhead symphony orchestra in Gabriel Faure's Requiem, to be presented Monday, November 17, at 8:15 p.m. in Weld auditorium.

Soloists are Lois Leervig, soprano, and Don Ellingson, baritone. Mary Rumreich will accompany at the piano and organ.

Faure's Requiem ranks with the finest religious music composed in France. Although composed in 1887, its freshness of conception is striking today. It is one of the few works of that time and type not overshadowed by Gounod.

Inspired by the passing of the composer's father, the Requiem is an expression of deeply sincere and moving grief, yet it is the grief of a man who can accept death and its terrors in a wise and confident tranquillity. Not as dramatic as Verdi's Requiem, its note is one of confidence.

A translation of the Latin text which the choir will sing is as follows:

INTROIT: Grant unto us eternal rest, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them. It is fitting, O God, that a hymn be sung to Thee in Zion, and in Jerusalem shall the vow be fulfilled unto Thee.

Hear my prayer unto Thee shall all flesh come. Lord have mercy upon us; Christ have mercy upon us.

OFFERTORY: O Lord Jesus Christ, King of glory, deliver the souls of the dead from the tortures of hell, from the abyss and from the mouth of the lion; let them not go to perdition nor fall into darkness.

We offer to Thee prayers and oblations O Lord, that Thou mayst receive the souls of those whom we today remember.

Let them pass, O Lord, from death into life as Thou hast promised to Abraham and to his seed forever. Amen.

SANTUS: Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of hosts. Heaven and earth are full of Thy glory. Hosanna in the highest.

PIE JESU: Holy Lord Jesus, grant unto them eternal rest.

AGNUS DEI: Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world, grant unto them unending rest.

May eternal light lighten them with Thy Saints; for Thou art holy.

LIBERA ME: Deliver me, Lord from eternal death in that terrible day when the heavens and the earth shall be moved.

Then Thou shalt come to judge the universe by fire. I am filled with terror and with fear before the wrath that is to come.

Day of anger and calamity; great day of misery and bitter suffering.

IN PARADISUM: May the angels bring you into paradise, the martyrs receive you and lead you into the holy city of Jerusalem. May the chorus of angels receive you, and may you have eternal rest with Lazarus, who once was poor.

Graduate Fellowships Available For Seniors

Byron D. Murray, director of the upper divisions, has been named as the Liaison officer to work with the Danforth Foundation on the selection of candidates for Graduate Fellowships.

The Fellowships, sponsored by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, are open to college seniors and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September 1953, for their first year of graduate study.

The applicants may be from the fields of Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and other fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

These appointments are primarily "a relationship of encouragement," carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need.

Students with or without financial need are invited to apply. All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation conference on teaching, to be held at Camp Miniwanca in Michigan next September.

The qualifications of the candidate as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are:

Evidence of superior intellectual ability in college record.

Good record of health and emotional stability.

Outgoing personality and the concern for people, essential for successful teaching.

Choice of vocation of teaching as form of Christian Service.

Deep religious convictions and growing religious perspectives. (The Foundation is looking for candidates who are seriously examining their own religious life, and are seeking a maturing faith and social outreach.)

Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Dr. Murray.

American Civilization Rich In Opportunity

Few civilization have ever been as rich in opportunity as the United States. Where can one find anything equal to the opportunity of the characters in Horatio Alger, who, exaggerated though they may be, are nevertheless an indication of the opportunity existing for the children of America?

It is appropriate, when considering "Children of Today's World" as we are during this American Education Week, that we discuss their opportunity. It is probably one of the few things in America which is characteristically American. It is the basis of our history and culture.

We in this nation have a long tradition of "pulling ourselves up by our bootstraps." Though the physical frontier which once characterized the rise of the American is commonly considered to be no longer in existence, opportunity is still there.

Atomic energy, the arts, the physical and natural science, American business, law, and (far from the least) education — all these things provide American children with an opportunity to do what they wish, if they really wish to do it.

Not the least of our opportunities has long been our freedom to express ourselves — a freedom which exists in so few nations today that it is rather dangerous for us to take it for granted, as we often do.

This last election campaign has shown, regardless of what one's individual opinion of the outcome may be, that we are free to express our wishes, and that as a people we may have what we wish. That is a very important opportunity.

Yes, there are many opportunities for our children. We must protect those opportunities, for there are those who would deny them to us, even in a nation like the United States.

There are people here who would impose their particular idea upon all of us. They criticize, which is their right. But too often their criticism tends to group all who feel differently than they into one category — un-American, which is not their right.

These people attack many things, almost everything. They attack any sort of experimentation in our school system, calling it communist. They attack religious groups, calling certain ones "dangerous" to what they consider our American way of life.

They attack other people who express an opinion which differs with theirs. They classify racial or national groups, categorizing them as inferior or unworthy of having equal opportunity, without making any investigation, but depending upon their "right" to express their own opinion.

Contending they are acting in the national interest, they attack others who are just as sure they are acting in the national interest, but whose principles, since they may be liberal, make it easy to classify them among the "dangerous."

This they do. They maintain that it is their right. And few would deny that they may say what they wish. What thinking people should deny, however, is the right to smear our schools, or our people, whenever they try something different.

For trying something different — experimenting — is also one of our opportunities. It is the way the children of the past have made America great.

Late in the '20s, there was a man who expressed himself in a nation across the sea much in the same sort of manner the attackers of experimentation are working today. He proclaimed the danger of being liberal, of experimenting. Eventually he became powerful enough to control his nation. And Adolf Hitler nearly ruined the world.

We must safeguard these precious opportunities our children have today. We must reply to unsupported charges which are hurled against everything "liberal," whether it be schools, opinions on minorities, individual persons, or any other thing which is being unfairly labeled.

For our opportunity to think and act as we wish — within limits — is the thing which has made America great. If we wish to keep our nation great, we must protect that opportunity.

'Won't You Do Your Part?' --- 'Dutch'

TO THE EDITOR:

I read your article in the MiSTiC and feel that it may be a good way for me to express my feelings and thoughts.

I know that many of you who go to MS are going to be teaching my children and possibly each others children in years to come.

What I am concerned about is, how well will neatness, and the will to have things orderly be stressed? What of their attitude toward doing what should be right?

I know that I have been rather strict on "No Parking" in the tunnel but how many times must a person be asked not to park there.

There is also the thoughtless, irresponsible parties who have the brass to park their cars on the grass in front of the Physical Education building.

Does this show signs of intelligence? I don't think so.

In the lockers rooms there are waste baskets but tape, paper, and old socks are always on the floor. Does your future home intend to look like that?

Think of the impression people get when they pay a visit to your College.

Please think of your reputation and the impression you give with such conditions.

One other gripe, if you wish to call it that, is one's responsibility to do a job and do it right.

There are a few who still refuse to do their part in returning equipment borrowed from other parts of the building.

Chairs, tables, lamps radio equipment, et cetera are being left where it was used.

This gives extra work for the custodians and we have just that much more work to do.

I want to feel as one of you, I want to help you decorate, give suggestions and do what ever I can to show my appreciation for your friendship and co-operation.

I honestly believe that the students here are among the best and sincerely hope to retain that feeling.

Won't you do your part?

Sincerely, "Dutch"
(Custodian, Phy. Ed. bldg.)

THROUGH THE KEYHOLE

By The Public Eye

The meanest trick in the world: Running a steam hammer at 8:00 a.m. on a Saturday morning in the same building you are trying to sleep.

I don't mind them covering up the sidewalk with dirt, I don't mind them accusing us of stealing their night flares, but that rat-a-tat-tat on a Saturday morning is too much....

I have a sneaking conviction that before they gave us a vacation last Tuesday they checked the class schedules.

Everyone I talked to had their lightest day then. There's just no justice.

It's about time for one of these: Friend: "Ah, professor, I hear your wife has had twins. Boys or girls?" Professor: (absent-mindedly) "Well, I believe one is a girl and one is a boy but it may be the other way around."

I think someone should give prizes for the best Sadie Hawkins Day beards. The only difficulty would be deciding who to award the booby prize to.

Why is it that the lower mail boxes are assigned to six-foot-plus boys and the upper rows to the shortest girls?

Smoke Doesn't Mean Fire

By Rhoda Senechal

The mournful and often discordant notes of the bands' rendition of a Mendellsohn prelude floated sonorously through Weld Hall when a gradually increasing odor finally pierced it's way into the consciousness of several of the band members and brought forth the realization that the odor that they had been smelling for the last few minutes was smoke.

Someone immediately ran out into the hallway of the second floor and came back with the startling announcement that the hall was full of smoke!

Mendellsohn's prelude ground to a stop at about the 60th movement and several other band members rushed outside.

"Call the Business Office and tell them that there's smoke on the second floor of Weld," calmly offered Mr. Votopka, band instructor, and he immediately went back to the more important business of conducting Mendellsohn's 61st movement.

One of the band members called the business office, and several of them deserted Mendellsohn long enough to run down to the first floor where they found more smoke and finally to the basement where the smoke was so thick "that you could cut it with a knife" as "Clarence,"

Just wondering....

Overheard in the Student Center:

First Student: "Let's cut Education today."

Second Student: "I'd like to but I really can't. I need the sleep."

Commission Minutes

The Student Commission met Monday November 10, 1952 at 7:00 in the Commission room.

Those present were: Keith Olson, Arland Brusven; Margaret Edman, Jim Johnson, Joyce Jones, Bill Nelson, Margaret Samuelson, Harvey Stewart, Gene Sullivan, and Mrs. Grantham.

The meeting was called to order by the president; the secretary's report was read and approved.

Donna Canning, as a representative of the Intersorority Council, was present to present to the commissioners a list of suggestions in regard to the rules for the Homecoming Queen campaign and also in regard to the floats.

These suggestions were discussed and will be placed in the Homecoming file for use by next year's Commission and the Homecoming chairman in drawing up the rules for next year's Homecoming.

Gene Sullivan informed the Commissioners that Grace Partin, Traveling Secretary of the WSSF, had visited our campus last week and discussed the World Student Service Fund with Margaret Samuelson, Keith Olson and himself in an effort to encourage MSTC to take an active part in supporting this Fund.

The purpose of the Fund is to help students in foreign countries with their education with the idea that these students will be the leaders in bringing about better world understanding.

After discussion of the matter, Arland Brusven was appointed to study the campaign suggestions and make a report to the Commission at the net meeting.

At this time it will be decided whether or not the Student Commission will sponsor a drive for the World Student Service Fund.

In regard to getting a name band for the Spring Prom it was decided the Commission should take a poll of the students to find out what interest there is among the members of the student body for getting such a band for the Spring Prom.

This information will help the Commission decide if it is worth while to continue working on the idea.

Harvey Steward made the motion for adjournment, Bill Nelson seconded the motion and it was carried.

Margaret Edman, Secretary.

SHORT STORIES

The MSTC basketball scheduled looks somewhat different this year in that some teams are played more often than in years past and some less.

The conference heads, feeling that two games against each opponents was not enough, have decided that the teams will meet each other four times.

Therefore games at home and away are scheduled for two consecutive evenings. The only dissenter was Winona who will play each team only twice.

This complicates the system somewhat. Each game they lose will count the same as a two game loss by others in the loop. Conversely, each contest won by the Warriors will count twice. It is unfortunate that the change in schedule had to come at a time when MS is so pitifully weak. They lost enough conference games last year.

The reason that the AC, Valley City, Wahpeton and Mayville are only played once is that these teams are limited by their conferences in the number of games they can play during the season.

In all probability there will be a Christmas tournament this year in which MS will participate. The other teams include Concordia, NDU and the AC.

We don't pick the Dragons to take this one.

Last week there was, in this part of the column, a wistful item concerning faculty attendance at sports activities. People have asked me what I meant — wasn't this a free country, couldn't the faculty do as they please?

My point is this: I do not care to have some instructor or administrator blab in my ear about how much I owe "good ol' MS" while at the same time they intoxicate themselves in the supposition that "good ol' MS" is not good enough for them.

Basketball Schedule Looks Different

Come on ladies and gentlemen, if MS is good enough for me, it is good enough for you.

A few years difference in age and a couple years difference in scholastic education does not set you up on a pedestal whereby rubbing elbows with the commoner your world will come crashing down about you....

You fellows can still get on and independent team downtown if you wish. They have sponsors waiting....

It is not too early to think about baseball. If you freshman are thinking about quitting school you had better stick around. You can see some mighty fine ball in the spring.

Intramural Volleyball

In the opening games of the Intramural volleyball schedule the Dawgs tipped the Jumping Jacks two in a row to win their two out of three series.

In the other game of the Red league the Celler Dwellers defeated the Blue Doalls in two out of three games.

The Alsorans whipped the Snogards to win the first games in the White league while the Blitzes defeated Paulson's Blue Boys in the second tilt of the evening.

The faculty team has not yet been organized, but is expected to enter competition soon.

A play-off for the championship will be held after the teams have completed the first round of play.

Dragons Have 22 Game Schedule; Will Compete In Christmas Tournament

The MSTC cage squad will have several new men this year in addition to eight returning lettermen. The returning lettermen are Hedstrom, Cooper, Purcell, Schoephoester, Torgerson, Olson, Roysland, and Johnson.

Additional help is seen in Don Torgerson, Mac Dahl, Howard Heil, Ron Thompson, Bud Cornforth, and Roger Haire. These fourteen players make up the tentative and temporary squad which began heavy drills Tuesday.

The rest of the squad will work out under Fritz Bierhaus who will coach the fifteen man reserve squad.

The Dragons have a wealth of experience but still lack much needed height they lost in 6-3 Keith Enger and 6-4 Jim Mittun the two tallest men from last years squad.

Enger graduated and Mittun was lost to Uncle Sam.

Torgerson, Hedstrom, and Roysland, were the three top scorers from last years squad.

The Dragons won only 6 games last year while dropping 16 including all eight of their conference tilts to give them a cinch on the cellar.

Last year the Dragons scored 1,258 points while allowing their opponents 1,465 for an offensive average of 57.18 and a defensive average of 66.59.

Coach Roy Domek expects to have a better team than last year but would not commit himself as to how much better it would be.

The Dragons have a 22 game schedule which includes a Christmas Tournament with Concordia, NDAC, and University of North Dakota. Included in this schedule are fourteen conference games.

American Indian's Paintings On Display This Week

Paintings by Woody Crumbo of American Indian tribal dances are on display this week in the Fine Arts Center.

Most of the pictures are highly idealized carefully designed studies of the individual dancers in the costumes appropriate for ritual dances.

In these paintings he uses the dark mediums of brown and reds. Printed explanations of the significance of the dances are with each picture.

Another group of pictures which are strongly imaginative and painted in a blue green medium shows Woody's study and interest in animal life.

Born in Oklahoma, Woody Crumbo attended the Indian schools and later the Universities of Wichita and Oklahoma.

He served as art director at Bacone college for Indians. He has painted several murals in prominent public buildings across the nation, and is represented in numerous permanent exhibitions.

In a period of six years he won 14 first prize awards, plus six scholarships. In 1945 he was awarded the Julius Rosenwald Fellowship.

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."
